

GOOBERS WIN OUT IN LOOSE GAME

Despite Raw Weather, Banner Crowd Sees Fight Between Roanoke and Petersburg.

Roanoke, Va., June 10.—In a loosely played game before a big crowd, the Tigers handed the game to the Goobers to-day. Bird started in the box for Roanoke, but in the second was relieved by Gardin, who pitched a shutout ball, but his support was so poor that Petersburg scored four more runs.

Richmond, for Petersburg, was not so effective, and after Busch had a lead of four runs he sent in Hedgpeth, who was hampered hard, but good work in the field kept the Tigers from scoring lots of runs. The Tigers smashed the ball in every inning with a determination to win, but things did not break their way, while their work on the defense was so poor that almost every misplay and error of omission cost runs.

The weather was cool, but despite this a very fine crowd, the best of the season, witnessed their pets go down to defeat. The score:

AMERICANS WIN OPENING GAME IN POLO MATCH

ponies, while there seemed a lack of fire and comparative stolidness in our Americans as they bore in aboard long-legged, towering horses that suggested heavy-brawn, muscular men.

In the first period, when the ball was put in play, there was a mad scramble, but Hutton scooped the ball to Lockett, who struck it toward the infield, where it was snatched by Milburn. With that forwarder on the offense, he sent it bounding to "Monty" Waterbury, who, with a resounding whack, drove a goal.

The stand went wild. Milburn was again in evidence when the ball was put in play, and, hitting it to Waterbury, they alternated, and Larry hit an easy goal. The third goal came out of the side line, and Milburn, who was on the watch outside, turned sharply and hit a clever goal. The Americans did better team work, and their ponies.

The score then stood 4 to 1 in favor of the Americans. After the referee rode over to the side line and announced that America had suffered a half goal penalty for fouling, leaving the net score, America 3-1-2 to 1.

The third period began by the ball being thrown in at the side line at the point where it left the field of play on the termination of the second period. A series of cross passes by the Englishmen sent the ball to the center of the field, where Edwards met it with one of his long hits. At first it looked like a goal, but rolled wide of the posts.

There were a few bad misses by the Englishmen. Ritson tried to dribble the ball away from the Americans, but failed, and soon afterwards a good hit by Milburn gave "Monty" Waterbury a shot at the goal, which he brought off successfully. This made the score 4-1-2 goals to 1 in favor of the Americans.

On Speedster Ponies. The fourth period saw some fast riding, both sides being mounted on their speedster ponies, and there was some brilliant hitting. In the early part of the period the ball was mostly in the neighborhood of the English goal line. Whitney and Larry Waterbury missed two splendid chances for the goal, but the Americans were out of a hit from Ritson, and the goal had the ball all to himself with striking distance of the goal, but he missed by hitting a little too soon.

Several scrammages occurred in this period, and the ball was all sorts of fouling. One of the fouls of the American team a half goal penalty. Before the gong sounded "Monty" hit Larry and he drove the ball between the posts. That left the score 4-1-2 to 1 in favor of America.

The fifth period saw the Englishmen at their best. Ritson made a goal after a couple of minutes' play, and it was the most spectacular hit of the day. He got the ball on the run, and, coming at it with full speed, he hit it with his snare-headed stick, sending it soaring high over the goal posts. Cheape made a wonderful long shot, which fell short of the goal posts.

After a few wide shots Ritson made another goal. The score was now 4-1-2 goals to 2, and had the Englishmen not missed so many chances they might have won the match. The Americans broke his stick in the period, and was forced to gallop out of the side lines for a fresh one.

No goals were tallied in the sixth period, but there was plenty of hard riding, bumping and a slight taste of rough housing. Out of one of the meekies "Monty" Waterbury emerged with a broken thumb, and he retired. His place was immediately taken by L. E. Stoddard, who went galloping madly around the field.

Plenty of wild galloping took place in the seventh period, and there was crossing and fouling. The Americans were mostly on the defensive, and on all opportunities drove the ball to the side line.

Early in the fray a half goal was taken off the American score, leaving it 4-1-2 to 3. Captain Whitney got a slash on the right wrist and the game had to be stopped till he rubbed the injured member. On play being resumed, Larry and Edwards gave a grand exhibition of long hitting, sending the ball the whole length of the field with covet of exchange hits. There was no score by either side.

The eighth period saw the Englishmen trying hard hitting, but their aim was all at sea. Larry Waterbury was thrown, but remounted and galloped into the play. Only about a minute was elapsed when Larry was hit and that was the last of the day. The net score was 5-1-2 goals to 3.

CHALONER WANTS TO REFORM LAWS

Thinks There Are Rich Youths in Richmond Taking Advantage of Young Girls.

New York, June 10.—One of the main reasons why John Armstrong Chaloner is reforming the laws of Virginia, relating to young girls. He believes that there is a clique of rich youths in the city of Richmond who are taking advantage of the laws.

The relative of Chaloner not only will refrain from opposing his application to establish his sanity in New York State, but he is willing to facilitate his efforts. This was learned to-day from the secret, who is representing the Chaloner interests.

"While," said he, "it is probable that if Mr. Chaloner, as he prefers to be known, comes back to New York he would have to submit himself to the Bloomingdale Asylum and there he need not necessarily be arrested. He might go direct to the court and declare his willingness to have his mental condition determined and his desire to have his property restored to his control. His relatives have even offered him the chance to come to Jersey City, where he could not be molested by New York authorities and there prove his sanity."

Thomas T. Sherman, committee of Chaloner's estate in New York, states that he has always been ready to assist Chaloner in proving his sanity if he will come to New York to do so.
